PARENT HANDBOOK

Superintendent's Message to Parents of the Class of 2015

Congratulations on your new role as a United States Coast Guard Academy Parent!

Sending a son or daughter off to college evokes many emotions ranging from exhilaration to anxiety. It is particularly difficult when it is the first young adult to leave home to pursue higher education and service in the Armed Forces.

The Coast Guard Academy brings a unique set of challenges and opportunities, and this handbook is intended to help you understand many of those. We hope this book will ease the transition for you and your son or daughter.

My most important responsibility is the safety and security of cadets. We are charged with educating, developing, training, and inspiring leaders of character who will serve as officers in the Coast Guard. We are committed to ensuring the success of every cadet who passes through Chase Hall on Reporting-In Day.

I realize our success depends in part on the partnership we forge with you and your cadet. I encourage you to stay involved in the ways outlined in this handbook, while giving your cadet the opportunity and space to succeed (and struggle). As many have observed, the rewards, including pride in accomplishment, only multiply as each challenge is faced head-on and overcome.

If we can assist you in any way before Reporting-In Day, please call Admissions or other staff and faculty members listed in this handbook.

The Journey Begins

Congratulations! Your son or daughter has accepted a challenge most peers will never realize: to graduate from the U.S. Coast Guard Academy and lead the men and women of the world's best Coast Guard.

The men and women of the Coast Guard often refer to this Service as a community. As a parent of a cadet, you are now a member of the extended Coast Guard community. Welcome! Your new relationship with the Coast Guard Academy is one that will bring many questions. Learning to support your son or daughter "from a distance" will bring many questions as well.

This handbook is written to help address your questions and to successfully prepare your family for Reporting-In Day (R-Day), Swab Summer, and Fourth Class (freshman) year. It is compiled with the gracious support and assistance of the Parents Association and Academy staff and faculty.

A Shared Mission

Adjusting to your son or daughter's absence (and rapid growth and change) will be an emotional journey. But there are many ways you can support and assist from home. Foremost is understanding the challenge your son or daughter is about to undertake.

The United States Coast Guard Academy is committed to strengthening the nation's future by educating, training, developing, and inspiring leaders of character who are ethically, intellectually, professionally, and physically prepared to serve their country and humanity, and who are strong in their resolve to build on the long military and maritime heritage and proud accomplishments of the United States Coast Guard.

In short, the Academy graduates "leaders of character" to serve America. Every Coast Guard Guardian lives by our core values: Honor, Respect, and Devotion to Duty. The same will be asked of your cadet.

We share an abiding respect for the public we serve. Alexander Hamilton, our founder, charged the officers of the Revenue Cutter Service with the following words in 1790:

Always keep in mind that {your} countrymen are free men, and as such, are impatient of everything that bears the least mark of a domineering spirit...Refrain from haughtiness, rudeness, or insult...Endeavor to overcome difficulties by a cool and temperate perseverance in {your} duty - by {skill} and moderation, rather than by vehemence and violence.

For a cadet to reach the goal of graduation into such a distinguished Service will require immense commitment intellectually, academically, physically, and morally. They will need love, support and independence to succeed!

What To Expect

As a parent you are likely to experience a great deal of pride in your cadet's accomplishments. Indeed, their appointment to the Academy is an accomplishment that you probably shared with them.

With pride will come a range of emotions in the days leading up to R-Day. Every parent you meet on that special day will feel much the same. Through it all, remember that the entire Academy staff and faculty are dedicated to supporting your son or daughter and to helping them succeed. Though it will be difficult to say goodbye, it only heightens the anticipation of that first letter or phone call, and the realization of how your cadet will grow into the position of a Coast Guard officer.

Many parents enjoy creating a "Memorabilia Box" before R-Day. Some will purchase a large plastic storage box and start collecting memories from your son or daughter's Academy career. Start with a photo album. Include the admissions application, acceptance letter, news clippings, and your cadet's letters home during Swab Summer. By graduation, there will be a box full of shoulder boards, pins, patches, and souvenirs!

Reporting-In Day

Reporting-In Day is a time honored tradition. Your son or daughter will be formally inducted (sworn in) to the Service, and begin his/her basic military training. The day before R-Day is full of activities for your cadet and family. We encourage you to tour the campus (Chase Hall will only be open to visitors from 4:00pm to 5:00pm) and join us for dinner on Sunday, June 26, 2011. You will receive a detailed schedule and additional information about the day before R-Day and R-Day activities in early June.

The Admissions Office will send your cadet specific instructions on how, when, and where to report. The day starts early and has a number of activities which will provide beneficial information. Your first priority is to drop your cadet off early. We recommend you park, walk to Leamy Hall, and wait with your cadet until they are called to report in with the rest of their company.

Check-in is traditionally between 7:00am and 9:00am and will be staggered by company. A letter with specific reporting instructions will arrive no later than two weeks before R-Day. Be early so your cadet gets off on the right foot!

After dropping your cadet off, you are encouraged to remain in Leamy Hall, where the Parents Association will help you organize for the remainder of the day. Plan to meet other families, attend informational sessions with staff and faculty, and enjoy a picnic lunch. This is also a good time to visit the Coast Guard Spouses' Association's table to order a birthday or special occasion cake for your cadet. Members in the local area will bake and deliver cakes to cadets - they love them!

Parents and other guests are not allowed to enter Chase Hall, or other buildings where military training or in-processing is being conducted, at any time during R-Day, so please abide by this regulation.

A swearing-in ceremony, which takes place on Washington Parade Field, will be held in the afternoon. This event is the highlight of the day. Your freshly minted cadet will reappear with his or her company, and possibly a new haircut, marching onto the field. After the ceremony, all new cadets will have the opportunity to rejoin their family and friends for a very short farewell, but please remain in the designated seating areas until the conclusion of the ceremony. Don't forget your camera for this special moment!

Before you drop off your cadet in the morning, arrange a place to meet after the ceremony. It is a good idea to wear or carry something distinctive, so you are easy to find in the crowd. You are encouraged to wear comfortable clothing and footwear. The campus is hilly and our summer weather can often be hot and humid. Here is a list of recommended items to bring:

- Copies of all your cadet's acceptance and medical forms
- A camera and extra film or digital memory cards
- Comfortable clothes and walking shoes
- Umbrella or poncho, if inclement weather is expected
- Money for souvenirs and the picnic lunch
- Books, cards, or small toys for younger siblings to play with
- Drinking water (also available for purchase on campus)

Swab Summer

Swab Summer is a long standing Academy tradition. This seven-week orientation helps your cadet achieve three things:

- Become a member of the Armed Forces
- Prepare to join the Corps of Cadets
- Prepare for the academic year

Swab Summer is named for the Fourth Class (freshmen) cadets, affectionately known as Swabs. A "swab" is a nautical term referring to the mops that sailors use to scrub the decks of ships. While the term may sound a bit demeaning, it derives from an important concept common to all military organizations - that the best leaders are those who have experienced military life at its most basic level. In short, good followers become better leaders. Your son or daughter begins a leadership journey during Swab Summer as a follower and as a team member.

Swab Summer culminates in a leadership and seamanship experience aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Eagle, America's Tall Ship, which your cadet will sail aboard for one of three short cruises dedicated to Swab training. Eagle does make port calls to embark and disembark cadets, so you may be able to spend a few hours with your son or daughter depending upon their individual duty and liberty schedules.

Remember that even though they are away from the Academy, time on Eagle is still part of the Swab Summer Training Program, so it's highly recommended you confirm your cadet's availability prior to making your own travel arrangements. If they are available, your cadet will be proud to give you a tour of the ship and demonstrate his or her new independence. Visit <http://www.uscga.edu/eagle> for the ship's sailing schedule, photo gallery, and daily journal of events.

Besides Eagle, your cadet will be involved in activities that include placement testing, physical fitness training, military preparation, drill, and indoctrination. A typical day starts early and will look like this:

0600	Reveille
0615	Morning Calisthenics
0700	Formation and Morning Meal
0800-1130	Training Period
1200-1300	Formation and Noon Meal
1330-1600	Training Period
1630-1800	Inter-Company Sports Competition
1815-1915	Formation and Evening Meal
1930-2030	Training Period
2030-2130	Study Hour
2200	Taps (Lights Out)

Training days are Monday through Saturday. Wednesday evenings and Sunday mornings are reserved for a variety of Chaplain Staff religious programs, which your cadet may choose to participate in. Sunday evenings are used for formal room and uniform inspections. Your cadet will also be given time to tend to their uniforms, get haircuts, do laundry, send out and check mail, and attend to other personal needs.

As you can see, Swab Summer is an intense period of orientation (much like boot camp). Cadets may question their decision to attend the Academy and their resolve to continue as they encounter the stress of living in close quarters (after all, we're a sea-going service), managing every moment of their time, and responding to the physical, emotional, and academic challenges. The stress has a purpose - to help your cadet develop the ability to cope successfully in the stressful situations they will encounter as a cadet and later as a commissioned officer.

Getting Organized

Your cadet will receive an acceptance package with several forms to complete before R-Day. Please review these carefully with your cadet and ensure all is in order. Plan early to arrange the following:

- U.S. Tourist Passport valid through June 1, 2015.
- Complete Immunization Record (see acceptance package for additional information).
- Panographic and bite wing dental x-rays taken after January 1, 2011.
- Cell Phone. Equipping your cadet with a cell phone will make it easier for them to call home if given the opportunity during Swab Summer. Normally, phone calls are not permitted during the first four weeks of training, except in an emergency.
- Cash. We recommend that your cadet arrive with about $200 in spending money.
- Credit Card. Cadets will be opening a Navy Federal Credit Union checking account with an associated ATM card during the first two weeks of Swab Summer. Their spending allowance (see next section) will be direct deposited into this account; a bank and ATM are located on campus.
- Camera. Your cadet may have a camera during Swab Summer; however, they may not have access to a computer/internet connection until the academic year begins. If you want pictures during Swab Summer, give your cadet a disposable camera that they can take pictures with and then mail back to you.
- Stamps/Stationery. To increase the odds that you will receive letters, we recommend you equip your cadet with the basics! Pre-addressed, stamped envelopes and postcards will make it easier for your cadet to drop you a quick note when they find time.

Cadet Pay and Allowances

Your cadet will earn about $975 per month in basic pay. This money will be managed by Cadet Finance and applied in two ways:

- To their guardian “white card” account, for expenses like their uniforms, laptop computer, laundry, dry cleaning, textbooks, and other professional expenses.
- To their personal checking account at Navy Federal Credit Union. This is a spending allowance which your cadet may use at their discretion.

The spending allowance totals about $150 per month for a Fourth Class Cadet. Their first payday will be around August 1, 2011, so we recommend your cadet bring around $200 (cash) with them to R-Day.

Please note that every cadet will receive a laptop computer before the academic year starts, even if they already own one. Therefore, there is no need to purchase a computer before reporting! You might consider purchasing your cadet a printer or desktop monitor (may not exceed 23”) if they request one.

Staying In Touch

Communicating: Unlike civilian colleges and universities, the Swab Summer experience intentionally limits (but does not exclude) opportunity for your son or daughter to contact home. Why? To help your cadet achieve the independence needed to succeed in a military environment and to build bonds of trust with his/her classmates and future shipmates.

Dealing with the lack of contact may be the most frustrating aspect of Swab Summer for you. Don’t be discouraged! But do recognize that from R-Day until the start of the academic year in late August, the burden of communicating will fall mostly to you.

Mail: This is the best way to stay in touch during Swab Summer. Don’t plan to receive much though! A worthy goal for you is to deliver a card, note, letter, or “care package” every other day. Think about enlisting the help of family and friends. “Over communicating” is OK; words of encouragement and pride will help your cadet stay the course. Many parents send newspaper clips or cartoons from home. If you are upbeat, chances are your cadet will be too! Please keep in mind that Swabs are not allowed to use e-mail until the academic year begins and are not allowed to use any social networking sites or instant messaging software during their entire first year at the Academy. Send mail to:

Cadet [your cadet’s name]
U.S. Coast Guard Academy
Chase Hall Box _ _ _ _
New London, CT 06320

Note: Your cadet will receive their specific mail box number for the above address in the reporting letter which will be delivered no later than two weeks before Reporting-In Day. Mail should be addressed to Swab [your cadet’s name] from R-Day until the start of the academic year since your son or daughter will not be recognized (within the Corps of Cadets) as a Cadet until they successfully complete the Swab Summer Training Program.

Care Packages: Cadets love “care packages” for themselves and to share with their company mates. The amount of food that they are allowed to keep in their room is minimal. It all must fit in an airtight container about the size of a shoe box. Frequent smaller packages are more useful than large amounts.

In the Event of Emergency:

In the unlikely event that your cadet is seriously injured or hurt, Academy personnel will contact you.

In the event of a family emergency requiring notification of your cadet, please contact either:

Cadet Watch Office at (860) 444-8294
Chase Hall Duty Officer (CHDO) at (860) 701-6750
USCGA Duty Officer of the Day (OOD) at (860) 444-8450

Visiting Your Cadet

For those unable to make the trip for R-Day, there are several opportunities to visit your cadet during the first few months of their Fourth Class year. The first time most cadets return home is Thanksgiving.

Flag Ceremony: Traditionally at the end of the fourth week of Swab Summer, the Summer Regiment will travel to nearby Mystic Seaport (a national maritime museum; see <http://www.mysticseaport.org/>) for a class recognition ceremony. You may observe this ceremony, which is quite impressive, and visit with your cadet for several hours afterwards. Admission to the Seaport is free for cadet families and cadet sponsor families that day. Some companies will be sailing on Eagle the day of the ceremony and therefore will not be in attendance, so please contact the Cadet Watch Office to confirm if your cadet will be participating.

EAGLE: As previously mentioned, you may have an opportunity during port calls to spend a few hours with your son or daughter depending upon their individual duty and liberty schedules. Again, please remember your cadet’s time on Eagle is still part of their Swab Summer Training Program, so it’s highly recommended you confirm the ship’s schedule (<http://www.uscga.edu/eagle>) and your cadet’s availability prior to making your own travel arrangements.

Labor Day: Labor Day weekend is the first overnight liberty (free time) that your cadet will enjoy. Few cadets actually travel home this weekend because of academic demands, sporting events, or military duty obligations. If your cadet does plan to travel home, make reservations early and with full regard for heavy traffic on Friday and Sunday evenings. Your cadet will enjoy getting “off campus” with you, sleeping in a hotel, and eating in any of the excellent local restaurants. If you can afford it, a second hotel room for your cadet is a nice touch. Consider inviting another cadet that may not be able to see their parents.

Parents Weekend: Scheduled for mid-October, but subject to change, Parents Weekend is a great opportunity for parents and family to visit the Academy and see the cadets in their environment. Sporting events, musical presentations, and a cadet parade highlight the weekend. A sample schedule of events is available at <http://www.uscgaparents.org/academy/parentwkend/index.html> - it’s a busy three days!

Virtual Visits: Photo albums of each class and other Academy events are available on the Parents Association website at http://www.uscgaparents.org/chapter/photos/album_links.htm

Getting Involved

You have been a major factor in your cadet's success. Although your son or daughter has left home, the Academy affords unique and fulfilling opportunities to stay involved in meaningful ways. Here are a few suggestions:

Join the Parents Association: The Parents Association is dedicated to supporting the Corps of Cadets and their parents/guardians. Their motto is Sumus Vobiscum or "We are with you." Members are organized into sixteen active chapters throughout the country. There is even an on-line virtual chapter for parents in areas where other Coast Guard families are not close by. Chapters host "welcome aboard" socials for prospective cadets and their families in the fall and spring. Message boards offer a forum for passing information among parents. Visit <http://www.uscgaparents.org/organization/chaptermap.htm> to find your nearest chapter and learn more about joining!

Join the Academy Admissions Partner Program: Admissions Partners are alumni, parents of cadets, graduates, members of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, and friends of the Academy. Partners build awareness about the Academy in their local communities and support cadet recruiting in a variety of ways. For more information and to register on-line, please visit <http://admissions.uscga.edu/partners/>

Attend an Inter-Service Academy Ball: In December, at several locations around the country, the Parents Associations from all service academies take turns organizing inter-service Academy holiday balls. These are normally black tie affairs that unite cadets, midshipmen, and their families for an evening of fellowship and cheer. The Parents Association will publicize these events well in advance.

When the Going Gets Tough...

Inevitably, your cadet will encounter "rough waters." After all, your cadet is earning one of the most rigorous educations our nation has to offer. You may be one of the first to know when problems arise. Parents are often the recipients of what many fondly call "venting." Venting is an emotional discharge or unloading. After they vent, most cadets feel fine and move on. Parents who have been through it before advise one thing: Listen, offer encouragement, and help your cadet resolve the problem on their own. Resist the temptation to take charge of the problem and get involved. Typically, reminding your cadet to take things one day at a time, or one meal at a time, usually works just fine!

Other cadets may choose not to involve their parents. If so, rest assured that the Academy faculty and staff are very alert to identify potential problems and to provide the resources necessary to help your cadet overcome the obstacle, move on, and succeed. On Reporting-In Day and Parents Weekend you will have the opportunity to meet many of the Academy's staff.

If you sense your cadet is having problems they cannot resolve on their own, encourage them to seek help from an appropriate source. No one "makes it" at a Service Academy without the help of others.

Religious Programs: The Chaplain Staff consists of three military chaplains with more than 50 years of combined counseling experience. The chaplains are often the "first choice" resource for many who seek counsel and advice. They organize and sponsor all religious programs as well, which afford excellent opportunities for peer-to-peer contact.

Cadet Counseling Staff: Confidential counseling services are available 24 hours a day with two credentialed counselors. Both are highly experienced in the gamut of emotional and developmental challenges young people face.

Sponsor Family Program: A home away from home, sponsor families are available to each cadet after Swab Summer. Participating Coast Guard, and other local military and civilian, families volunteer to take in a cadet as an extended member of their family. Background checks have been conducted on all sponsor families and, depending on the strength of the relationship, many extend courtesies such as overnight stays on weekends, food, holiday meals, transportation, and of course friendship and mentoring. This is a great opportunity for cadets to relieve the stress of Academy life!

Faculty Advisors: At the start of the academic year, your cadet will be assigned a faculty advisor. The faculty advisor is charged with guiding the cadet's intellectual and academic progress and, along with the Company Officers and athletic coaches, developing the "whole person." The faculty advisor will be among the first to know if academic problems are brewing. He/She will respond promptly by engaging the cadet and other members of the academic support team.

Company Officers and Chiefs: Cadets are organized into eight companies (Alfa, Bravo, Charlie, Delta, Echo, Foxtrot, Golf, and Hotel). Each company consists of about 125 cadets representing all four classes. They are mentored and supported by a Company Officer (a commissioned officer with five or more years of service) and a Company Chief (a senior enlisted member with ten or more years of active duty experience). Both are responsible for the mentoring and professional development of each cadet. They carefully guide and assist all cadets in their charge.

Athletic Coaches: Over sixty percent of our cadets compete in intercollegiate sports. Consequently, most form close relationships with their coaches, who are ready and willing to modify practice schedules, organize tutorials, counsel, advise, and engage other members of the support team.

Medical Clinic: The medical staff of military and civilian professionals are responsible for overseeing the health care that cadets receive while at the Academy. This health care may be provided either at the clinic or through the military's TRICARE health insurance. Cadets must obtain a referral from the clinic prior to seeking care outside of the Academy. In the event of an emergency, cadets may seek immediate care at the nearest Emergency Department without requesting a referral or prior approval.

Academic Support Resources: Your cadet's academic success is one of our top priorities. Faculty members staff the Academic Center for Excellence (ACE) during extended hours. ACE is dedicated to assisting cadets improve their reading, writing, study and time management skills.

In addition to Academic Support Resources, we have several intervention programs designed to address some of the most serious pitfalls your son or daughter might encounter away from home. They include:

Alcohol Awareness Training: Developmentally appropriate training is delivered each year. Underage drinking and alcohol abuse is not tolerated at the Academy. Violators are normally disenrolled.

Sexual Assault/Harassment Awareness Training: Fundamental to the Coast Guard is our core value of respect. Cadets are trained to recognize and confront sexual assault or harassment. A zero tolerance policy is in effect and violators will be disenrolled.

Beyond Swab Summer

By the time Swab Summer ends your cadet will have achieved a degree of maturity, independence, and confidence. Cadets will sense the difference in themselves and recognize that while the road ahead still includes challenges and uncertainties, they have chosen a path of purpose and meaning. As your cadet progresses through his/her Academy career, they will earn increasing levels of responsibility and privilege as leaders, which you can be sure they will proudly share with you.

Check the Critical Dates Calendar to plan ahead. If traveling, make reservations early, but only after checking your cadet's schedule. During Fourth Class (freshmen) year, your cadet will stand duty one out of every eight days during the academic year, including weekends, so ensure you know precisely when they may depart prior to making any travel arrangements. During peak holiday travel periods, cadets are still responsible for returning to the Academy on time! Most cadets plan to arrive several hours (not minutes) prior to their leave expiring and many traveling from the west coast often arrive the day before leave expires. As always, you should plan for at least two hours to clear check-in and security at most airports.

The opportunities for your cadet to participate in campus life, academic enrichment, internship programs, professional training, and athletic pursuits is staggering considering our small size. The world awaits, so encourage your cadet to take advantage of everything!

Leave periods are when all cadets are authorized, unless specifically restricted as punishment for conduct offenses, to depart the Academy and no cadet duty section is maintained. In addition to these dates, cadets receive up to three weeks of leave each summer.

Dedication

This handbook is dedicated to the memory of 2/c Cadet Jonathan K. Briese (Class of 2001) in the hope that it will make the Coast Guard Academy experience more meaningful and memorable for both parents and their cadets. It was created with the assistance of the Parents Association and many other friends of the Academy who shared their knowledge and experiences.
