

2017 ANNUAL REPORT

ALL PRESENT

FOR THE CORPS. FOR THE ACADEMY. FOR THE COAST GUARD.

From the President

This 2017 Annual Report is our opportunity to express our gratitude for your generosity. Together, we are having a transformative impact. We are celebrating our amazing alumni. We are connecting you to each other and the Academy. We are evolving a culture of philanthropy within the cadets, alumni, parents, and a growing number of friends that decreases the impact of federal funding shortfalls.

The stories told here highlight how your impact provides transformative experiences for the Corps of Cadets and our alumni – experiences simply not possible without your gifts. It's because of you that more cadets have access to programs like the Arctic Advanced Research Projects, state-of-the-art facilities like the Otto Graham Hall of Athletic Excellence, coaches that help them take their competition to the next level, and an unparalleled leadership experience that is constantly improving thanks to the Admiral James M. Loy Institute for Leadership (page 38). Your support also provides alumni with opportunities to connect with cadets and each other.

In 2017 we eclipsed $2.4 million in total gifts to the Academy. The All Present campaign – our first comprehensive campaign to address the needs of the Corps, the Academy and the Coast Guard – reached almost $28 million in direct gifts and pledges last year, representing 93% of our goal with 32 classes and the Parents Association stepping up to commit their support.

This is an exciting time to be part of the U. S. Coast Guard Academy Alumni Association. Times change. Leadership changes. But, our collective dedication, passion and pride remain constant.

Thank you!

Andrea M. Marcille '89, President
Captain, U. S. Coast Guard, Retired

“The Board reflects the interest of the Association’s membership in ensuring that the Academy experience remains special and excellent - rigorous in the academic and professional challenges it presents to future leaders, relevant to the needs of the Service and the nation in a dynamic environment, and constantly seeking to develop leaders with the skill and ability to leverage the talents of a diverse workforce to best effect for the Service.”

TRANSFORMING TRADITIONS

The roar of the furnace dominated the room as cadets, alumni, spouses, and Alumni Association staff stood back and watched seven rings from the Class of 1969 melt in a crucible at 1,948°F.

The resulting nugget looked small, but held years of experience and tradition in its 15 carat heft. “Think about how many paths that will go down,” said John Bond from the fine metal refinery Pease and Curran, and “where it’s been,” added CAPT Wayne Gronlund ’69.

Gronlund, his fellow classmates, and their widows donated the rings as part of the Alumni Association’s Golden Legacy Program that started in 2009. It offers alumni the chance to form a special bond and lasting link with the future officers of the Coast Guard.

Donated class rings are melted down each year and mixed with new gold to forge the class rings for the next generation of Coast Guard officers. The rings are officially gifted at the Third Class Formal.

Last year alumni and cadets witnessed the actual melting of the rings at the first-ever Ring Melting Ceremony in September.

“Sharing this experience with several members of the Class of 2019, our Link-in-the-Chain class, made the whole event extraordinary,” said Gronlund, who represented his class.

Since the Golden Legacy Program started a total of 33 rings have been donated and more than 14 classes have participated. This process will continue in perpetuity, linking the alumni who wore those rings with the generations to follow in their footsteps. It has become an integral part of the Link in the Chain Program that connects current cadet classes with the class that graduated 50 years before them.

“It filled me with immense pride in the Academy and excitement for the Long Blue Line we will soon be joining,” said 2/c Michaela Hepler.

“It was touching to see the rings donated and feel the trust and support the Class of 1969 has in us,” said 2/c Anna Morin. “The powerful symbolism behind the ceremony has inspired me and my classmates to look forward to our turn to give back to those who have come before and will come after.”

The class ring symbolizes one’s youth, pride, perseverance, and unwavering commitment to the core values of honor, respect, and devotion to duty. “Through the Golden Legacy Program, it now also represents one’s eternal connection to the Long Blue Line,” said CAPT Andrea Marcille ’89.

Both the Golden Legacy and Link in the Chain programs are managed and supported by the Alumni Association’s Alumni Relations team. Last year more than 13 Link in the Chain events connected the current Corps with those who have gone before them.

TRANSFORMING COAST GUARD ARCTIC POLICY

Four years ago the Coast Guard laid out the vision for establishing a center of Arctic expertise at the Academy. But “not having the resources to flesh out that vision was a challenge,” said Dr. Rebecca Pincus, Class of 1965 Center for Arctic Study and Policy (CASP) Endowed Chair. “There was a fair amount of skepticism and I’m really proud that four years later CASP is still here, and it’s established. We’ve become an integral part of many things the Coast Guard does throughout the Arctic region.”

That level of integration and influence didn’t happen overnight and it certainly didn’t happen without the grit and tenacity of Pincus, along with support from the Class of 1965 to ensure her position remained funded.

Pincus came to the Academy in 2014 as the first academic at CASP. Her doctorate experience researching the U.S. response to Arctic melt was a good fit, as was her research into the Coast Guard’s icebreaker acquisition efforts.

In 2015 she filled the new chair position funded by the Class of 1965, with two equally important directives: educate cadets on the Arctic, while conducting strategic research for the Coast Guard. One research area has been the U.S.-Russian management of the Bering Strait as ship traffic increases. She’s also looked at how media portrayals of the Arctic affect public opinion.

Last year Pincus and CASP updated the Coast Guard’s High Latitude Study from 2010 (an appraisal of polar missions and needs that served as the basis of congressional testimony on appropriations). The addendum synthesized the relevant Arctic research since 2010 for the Vice Commandant of the Coast Guard.

CASP also plays a supporting role in the Arctic Coast Guard Forum, which formed in 2015 and consists of representatives from the 8 Arctic nations. The Forum aims to increase coordination and cooperation between the respective Coast Guards on shared challenges in the region. Pincus is especially proud of CASP’s ability to include academics in the Forum’s operations. By coordinating academic sessions at their meetings, CASP brings Arctic policy makers and researchers together in one room.

Pincus spends an equal amount of time educating cadets on Arctic issues in her annual course on the Arctic. Oftentimes the two worlds collide for those cadets lucky enough to work on the Arctic Advanced Research Projects managed by CASP since its inception. Cadets have researched search and rescue readiness in the Arctic region, Coast Guard partnerships in Alaska, and this year have focused on international alliances and partnerships.

Last October three cadets traveled to Iceland for the Arctic Forum’s first live exercise, Arctic Guardian, visiting an Icelandic Search and Rescue Center, observing operations on a Canadian Coast Guard ship, and more.

“It’s opened their eyes to the global role of the Coast Guard,” said Pincus and changed the focus of their careers, with two of them now interested in serving on an icebreaker.

In four years “we’ve gotten a lot of things accomplished,” said Pincus, who’s leaving at the end of the semester for a position with the Naval War College. “We’ve organized conferences, we delivered major reports to Coast Guard leadership, we’ve touched hundreds of cadets, we’ve built relationships across the country and internationally, and that’s something that we can be really proud of.”

The Class of 1965 funds the academic chair position at CASP. You can learn more at www.uscga.edu/CASP.

A TRANSFORMATIVE LIFE EXPERIENCE

I had the best experience of my life last summer - the opportunity to complete an academic internship at the University of Hong Kong as part of the Fund for American Studies' Asia Institute for Political Economy. Not only was I able to learn and grow from the other students and cultures, I was able to hear from some of the best academics and leaders in the civilian sector.

During this three-week experience, I took classes in Political Economy and Political Philosophy with nearly 70 other students from a dozen different countries, including Myanmar, Nepal, China, Vietnam, and the Netherlands.

One of the critical components of the internship was classroom discussions, which raised contentious issues plaguing the international community such as how much government involvement is acceptable in society and how to best provide aid to other countries.

My coursework at the CGA, specifically Dr. Melissa Matthes's Introduction to Political Theory, was essential in my ability to engage constructively in dialogue to amicably resolve these disagreements. In Dr. Matthes's class, we were forced to listen respectfully to the viewpoints of other individuals and use reason to articulately argue our viewpoints.

I used these skills extensively during my internship, where students from across the world literally came together in one room to settle disagreements and learn from each other.

As an officer, I know that these communication skills will remain a necessity, whether resolving disputes between crewmembers or while interacting with members of the international community during operational commitments.

The internship also forced me to reflect on the implications of U.S. foreign policy from the view of other countries and cultures. As a Government Major, this was certainly a career-broadening experience.

This summer experience has left me excited to contribute to the Coast Guard's international missions, and has allowed me to understand the value of the education that I am receiving here at the Coast Guard Academy.

I feel truly fortunate to have had the opportunity to participate in this internship, and I think that it has made me a better student and Coast Guardsman.

TRANSFORMATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

Being a member of the Glee Club offers cadets opportunities of a lifetime. From amazing trips throughout the United States and around the world to Presidential Inaugurations and even the Superbowl, these musically talented cadets perform in front of a broad audience throughout the course of a year.

The Coast Guard is the only military service that doesn't have a national singing group. "When the Glee Club goes out to perform they are representing the Academy and the whole Coast Guard," said Dr. Robert Newton, Director of Cadet Musical Activities, who started the Club in 1969.

On average, the Club performs about 30 times a year, taking a spring break trip (last year it was to the state of Georgia, this year to San Diego), traveling to New York City each fall to perform at the Coast Guard Foundation Dinner, and even making appearances at Alumni Association events, such as the Otto Graham Golf Classic at Bay Hill in Orlando, Florida in 2016.

One of the more notable trips and a favorite experience of club co-presidents 1/c Hannah Eshleman and 1/c Cory Creswell was the spring break trip to Germany three years ago. They performed for dignitaries at a UN conference, the German people at a beer fest, and American service personnel serving abroad. "It was great to be exposed to that culture," said Creswell, who had never been to Europe before.

Cadets in the club learn valuable lessons they will take to the fleet, such as how to network.

There are often opportunities either before or after a performance to mingle with attendees. "I always say it's 60% singing and 40% socializing - learning how to talk to admirals and members of the community," said Newton.

"[At these events] you're surrounded by people in the Coast Guard who have done so much and they want to talk to you," said Eshleman. "It's a good way to learn how to reach out to those in the fleet and find mentors."

Being a member of the Glee Club also offers the chance for cadets to make friends across the classes outside of Chase Hall and "be normal" for a few hours a week.

"We're all working together to sound good," said Eshleman, who had never sung in a group before starting at the Academy. "It's refreshing...and I've made a lot of really, really good friends - it's been my outlet."

As Newton begins his 47th year at the Academy his favorite part of the job is still working with the cadets. "They're fun to be with, they're really intelligent, and they learn the music very quickly."

For the cadets in the club, it's an experience that can't be matched. "You have the things that you have to do for the military, but you also have the things that you enjoy," said Creswell. "It's important to learn that balance now."

Funds from the Alumni Association often provide the financial boost needed to get the Glee Club to performances they might not otherwise be able to attend.

TRANSFORMING HOMECOMING FOR THE LAST 15 YEARS

“This one idea has changed Homecoming for so many people,” said Eileen Foye Kelly, Director of Alumni Relations for the USCGA Alumni Association. The idea was simple - rent some golf carts and use them during Homecoming to give rides to people who needed a little help getting around the Academy.

“It has given so many older alums and alums with mobility issues a chance to come here and enjoy their Homecoming,” said Foye Kelly. “A chance many may not have had if we didn’t offer this service.”

If you’ve been lucky enough to take a ride in one of the carts during Homecoming, you can thank VADM Deese Thompson and his classmates from the Great Class of 1952. After their 50th in 2002, VADM Thompson, CDR Bob Carlston, Jim Barrett and Fred Long suggested that a few carts might help people get around.

“The Class voted and we have contributed enough into our endowment to cover the next several decades – it’s our legacy,” said Thompson.

In 2003 the first three carts arrived for Homecoming and the Alumni Association hasn’t looked back. In fact, the service has steadily expanded over the years and now includes a full fleet of 16 carts and two shuttle buses that help move people around the notoriously hilly campus.

“We tell people, if you can get here, we’ll take care of you,” said Sue Fage, Assistant Director of Alumni Relations.

Not only are the carts helpful for getting around the Academy, but they’re also a lot of fun for the riders and the drivers. Lolly Owens, Member

Engagement Specialist, has been driving carts for the last four years and loves the opportunity it offers to meet and talk with the alumni.

“My favorite part is hearing their stories, reminiscing, finding out how the Academy has changed over the years,” said Owens.

Owens even decorates her cart with orange and blue streamers, balloons, and, last year even added a tiara. She always makes sure she has mints and snacks on hand, ponchos in case it’s raining, and a warm blanket for those colder days. She’s inspired other drivers to decorate their carts, bringing up the level of spirit and fun for everyone.

Last year Owens had the best ride yet along with her husband, who volunteers to drive each year because it’s so much fun (like many other volunteer drivers who come back year after year). Together they were able to give a personal tour around the Academy to Daniel Hines ’67 who had returned with his entire family (children and grandchildren).

“Everyone had a ton of fun and the fact that they loved it was awesome...all made possible because of the golf carts,” said Owens.

Since 2003 it’s estimated that more than 27,000 people have been given more than 6,800 rides thanks to one great idea and the Great Class of 1952.

The golf carts are provided by the Class of 1952 Endowment.

A TRANSFORMATIVE SEASON FOR CADET & COACH

1/c Darius Adams is an athletic “phenom.”

Originally a basketball player his first two years at the Academy, Adams decided to try out for the Football and Track & Field teams never having played either before - and broke school records in both sports.

In his first season playing wide receiver for the Football Team in 2016, he broke the single-season school record for receiving yards (1,054) and touchdown receptions (13), and was named the NEFC Offensive Rookie of the Year.

The following spring he dominated his Track & Field competition, winning the 2017 DIII National Championship in long jump with a length of 24 feet, 1 ½ inches. He also broke the school record (24-5 ¾) at a meet earlier in the year.

“He has incredible athletic ability... and could be a star at anything he did,” said Brendan Wilkins, assistant coach for Track & Field at the Academy, who specializes in the jumping events (long jump, high jump, and pole vault).

Adams, who is an international cadet from the Bahamas, worked closely with Wilkins throughout both the Indoor and Outdoor Track seasons on his jumping technique, reviewing recordings of his jumps and trying out different approaches until they settled on a winning combination his 2/c year.

“[Wilkin’s] patience is key,” said Adams, who had never received any formal training in the long jump before. The attention to detail and the preparation before every practice made a real difference in Adams’s success.

Wilkins joined the Academy staff as an assistant coach the fall of 2014 following his graduation from Ithaca

College, where he competed in the high jump. “Sports had been a big part of my life,” said Wilkins and he didn’t want it to end. Coaching seemed like the perfect way to continue doing something he loved. He’s learned a lot in four years and can now say he’s coached a national champion.

“Going to nationals is probably one of the hardest things that you can do as an athlete,” said Wilkins. “It takes so much just to get there and then once you get there, anything can happen.”

And anything did...in this case Adams had to face his competition in the pouring rain. “I knew I was peaking and as long as everything went well,” said Adams, he was hopeful he could earn a place on the podium. Turns out he had his best jump when the rain and wind were at their worst and ended up beating out 19 other competitors to win the top slot.

“We worked so hard,” said Wilkins. “It’s amazing how he persevered and to work even harder to get there and then win the whole thing was just incredible.”

Adams hopes to continue his athletic career beyond the Academy and compete at the international level for The Bahamas once he graduates. Thanks to the training he received from Coach Wilkins and his natural athletic ability, he’s got a really good shot.

Funds from the USCGA Alumni Association’s Bear Club supports the salaries of assistant coaches, as well as, travel for cadet-athletes.

BEAR CLUB GROWTH CONTINUES

Total revenue grew to more than $350,000; a 21% increase from 2016 and 84% from 2015. A significant portion of this growth came from a continued increase in the number of alumni and parents giving at the $1,000+ level. This number increased 32% to 82 donors, including 6 donors at the $5,000+ level and 4 donors at the $10,000+ level.

MAKING AN IMPACT

The Bear Club provides essential annual support to sustain and enhance financial resources for CGA Athletics, beyond what the federal government provides. Gifts to the Bear Club impact cadet-athlete travel and retaining the best non-billeted coaches. With your support, in 2017...

Baseball traveled to Atlanta, GA for a three-game series in February. This additional opportunity to train and compete outside – funded entirely through Bear Club support – proved beneficial in the team's sweep of USMMA two weeks later.

Tennis Coach Jordon Smith was hired in 2017 and began his tenure on January 1, 2018. Thanks to the generosity of an anonymous donor to the Bear Club, Smith is the first ever full-time head coach of CGA Tennis.

Women's Rowing hired a new full-time coach and part-time assistant coach thanks to Bear Club support.

Men's Soccer was ranked 12th nationally in shut outs due to the training provided by a dedicated goalie coach whose position was funded by Bear Club support.

To see how the Bear Club impacts each team please visit www.cgaalumni.org/bearclub and click on "Supported Teams."

As the core component of support for CGA Athletics, the Bear Club has grown significantly since its inception in 2012. The preceding charts and graphs provide a summary of that growth & select highlights from 2017.

Caption: While the Otto Graham Hall of Athletic Excellence was dedicated in late 2016 it's impact wasn't fully felt until 2017. In its first year, the space hosted a spectrum of major events, 88 in all, with more than 11,000 attendees. Located in Billard Hall, the cadets and staff are still able to use the space throughout the work week and on most weekends to play pick-up basketball and volleyball, as well as other physical fitness activities. This superb venue would not be possible without your support!

Thank you to our Academy alumni, friends and parents for your support. As you have seen on the previous pages your gifts have an impact on athletics, academics, cadet life, leadership, as well as strengthening the Long Blue Line. This page highlights $358K in campus enhancements made possible in 2017 due to alumni, parent and class generosity.

IT'S NEVER TOO EARLY

A Planned Giving Testimonial

LT KEITH BLEVINS, CLASS OF 2008

Over what is nearly half a lifetime for me, I have benefited from remarkable opportunities beyond my expectations, that were a result of attending the Coast Guard Academy and significantly shaped my career. In order to give back and ensure others are provided the same "Margin of Excellence" opportunities, I wrote a planned gift to the Alumni Association into my will and made a commitment to the current All Present campaign.

I believe the Association is the best steward of funds to effectively and efficiently benefit the Academy, as seen during my time on its Board of Directors. I chose to designate my gift to the CGA Today! Fund, which applies money to the areas of greatest need and helps fulfill items on the Superintendent's Needs List. Since I know that I will not always be in touch with the latest needs of the Academy, I chose CGA Today! to ensure that my money has the greatest impact and is applied wherever it's needed most when the time comes.

As I hopefully reach higher levels of financial success, I plan to increase my planned gift accordingly. I encourage others who feel that their experience at the Academy helped shape and develop them into the person they are today, to consider including the USCGA Alumni Association in their estate planning. It's never too early to begin thinking about how to leave your legacy.

Cumulative Giving Circles

Admiral James M. Loy Institute for Leadership

We are pleased to report that the Admiral James M. Loy Institute for Leadership (Loy IFL) made great progress in 2017, with notable accomplishments below:

The Loy IFL hosted a workshop for the entire Academy community thanks to the generous support of the Class of 1964. The workshop provided a universal leadership language to align our community around developing leaders of character via:

- Break-out sessions on how our prospective Core Programs (e.g., Swab Summer Training Program, Coastal Sail Training Program) utilize the LEAD Strategy
- Guided reflection on leadership development best practices
- LT Col Basik's keynote on Behavioral Integrity and how acting with integrity provides exemplary models for cadets

CLASS OF 1964 LEADERSHIP WORKSHOP

Loy IFL Tyler Chair, ADM Thad Allen, helped organize and host two cadet trips to Washington D.C., which included tours at CG Headquarters, the Pentagon, the White House Eisenhower Executive Office Building, and the Army Navy Club. One cadet praised the trip for introducing him to different Coast Guard career paths and how it was interesting to hear how similar "1/c capstones were to real life Coast Guard problems."

ANNUAL TYLER CHAIR DC TRIP

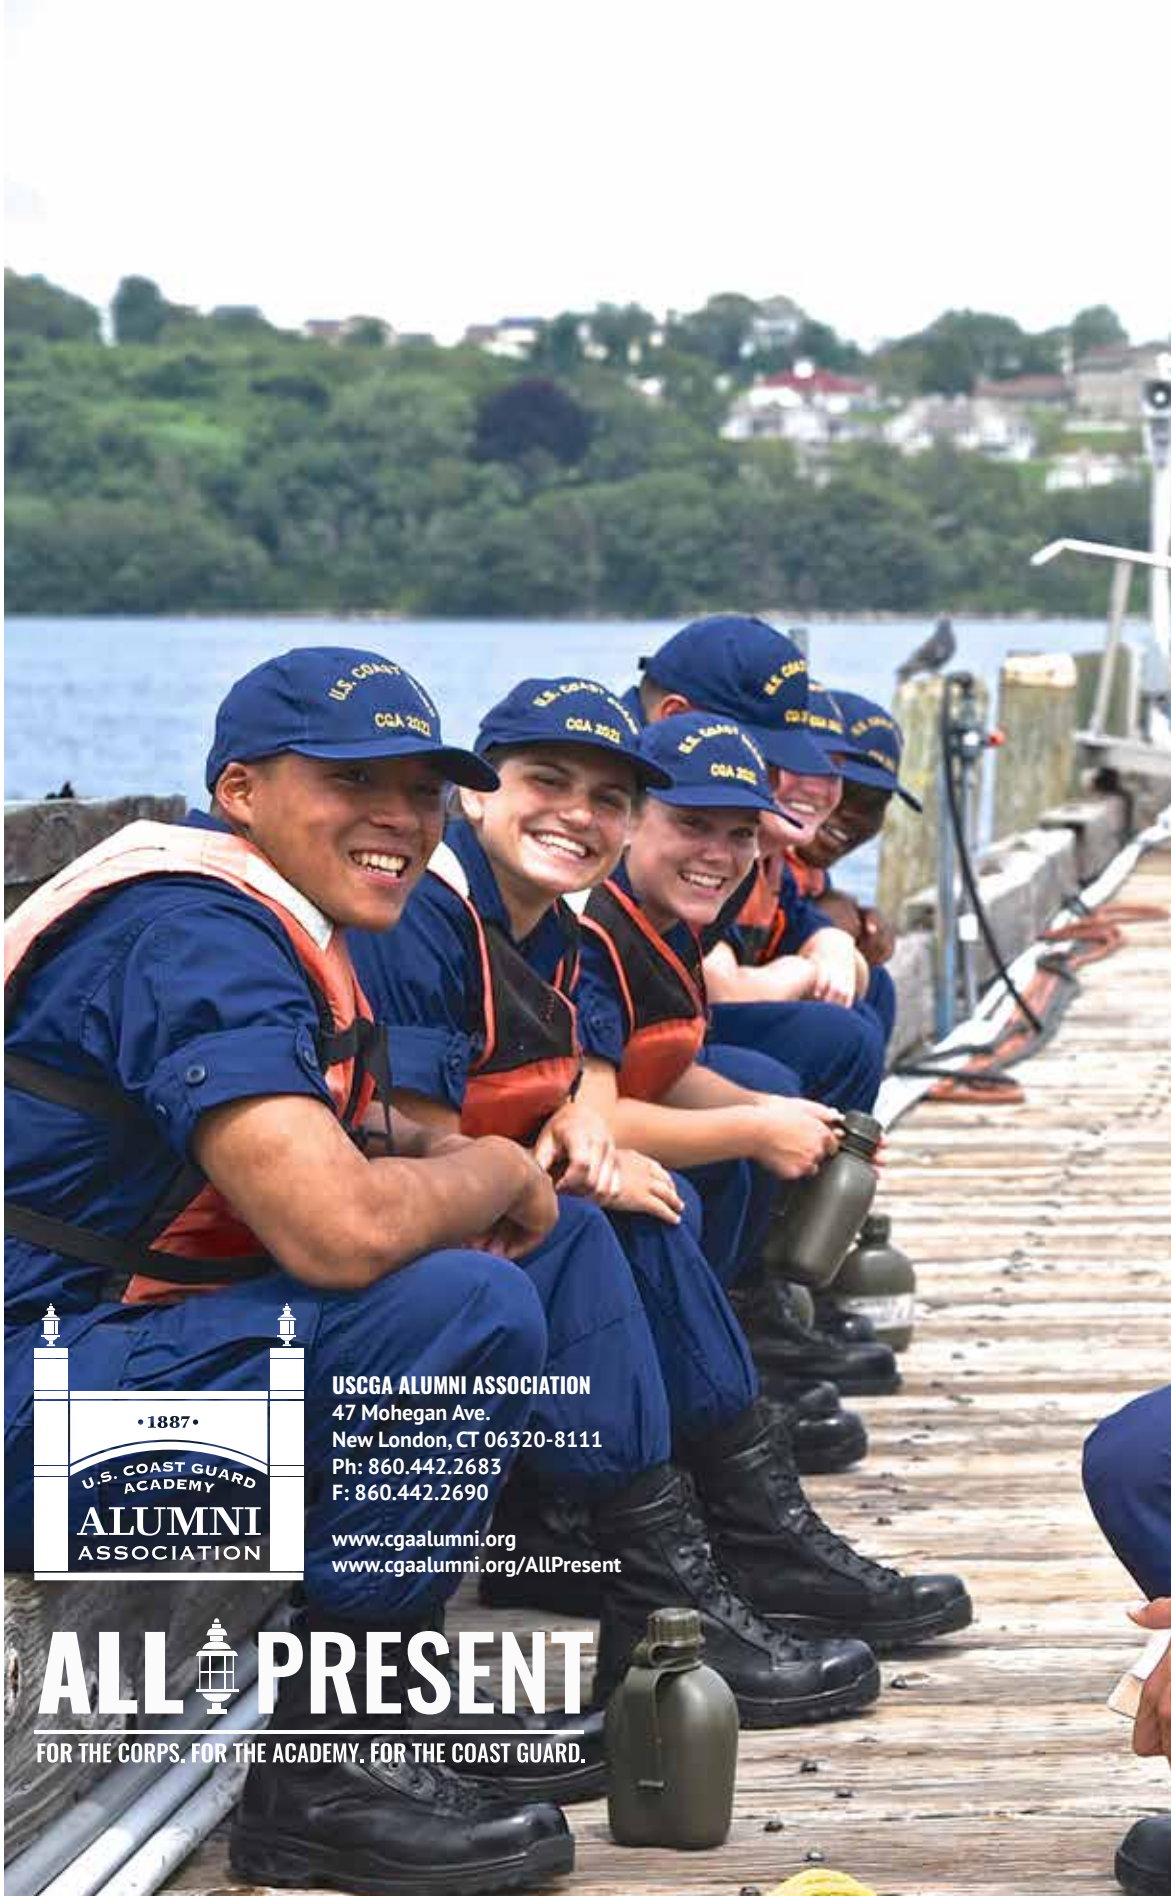

- Company Officer & Company Chief Trainings – to promote leadership development as priority for each company
- Leadership is Everybody's Business Luncheons – to continue the '64 Leadership Workshop discussion by focusing on prospective Core Programs, the LEAD Strategy, and best leadership practices
- Class Officer & Athletic Captain Trainings – to prepare class officers and athletic captains to lead within their specific roles

SUPPLEMENTAL TRAININGS

Loy IFL efforts have led to community members reporting increases in their understanding of Academy leadership programs and their ability to positively influence cadet leadership development.

Follow the Loy IFL on Facebook and Twitter @LoyIFL to learn more about their daily leadership development efforts at the Academy!
